

Ford is developing Spot Lighting technology that uses an infra-red camera to detect pedestrians, cyclists and animals. Spot Lighting highlights these hazards with specially designed headlights and also places them on the screen inside the car.